NINE HEARTS

In the compelling drama “Nine Hearts”, a heroic special forces team is established to protect Turks globally, defending them wherever they face threats. They are courageously led by Colonel Tomris Toprak and the commander she chooses, Captain Batur Karanlik, on operations that highlight their passion, bravery and humanity in working together against hostile forces.

Tomris and Batur hand pick members of the “Turkish World Emergency Response Team”, selecting the most talented individuals to operate in the most challenging environments. They are to be the jewel in the crown of the Turkish Armed Forces, destined to fight for Turks in any place they are victimized across the world.

Tomris performs military heroics despite deep personal suffering, her husband divorcing her when she refuses to give up her military career. When he takes their son away to Canada, she faces a personal battle to be reunited with the boy she loves. Captain Batur Karanlik, who matches her for skill and courage, is also destined to be a hero and will have to overcome his own personal tragedy.

But evil forces are determined to strangle the Emergency Response Team at birth, targeting Tomris and Batur on anti-terrorist operations. From a border military outpost, Captain Batur commands an operation to capture a leading terrorist and becomes engaged in a series of battles with his brave soldiers to overcome the militant’s treacherous plans.

Colonel Tomris, meanwhile, is sent on an operation in Azerbaijan where she too is confronted with forces seeking to frustrate her plans, and she must fight her way free from those who capture her. Only when they have both completed their operations can they bring together the members of the Nine Hearts team to swear their patriotic oath. Their first mission as a team is to save Turkish nomads at the mercy of terrorist groups on the Uzbekistan-Afghanistan border. It is just the sort of task for which the Nine Hearts team was established -- to prevent a terrorist plot to destroy Turks across the world. As they fight, Colonel Tomris and Captain Batur are extremely outnumbered and stuck in hostile territory.

The people they meet and relationships they develop along the way will present their own difficulties. When Captain Batur’s attention is captured on the operation by a mysterious young woman, he does not know if he can trust her, whether she is friend or foe? It is a challenge they are to face repeatedly.

Tomris and Batur find themselves drawn into a dangerous world that engages their passions, hopes and fears, forming deep relationships that strengthen them in the great war which Nine Hearts is destined to fight. Now that their team is on duty, no Turk is alone. They have opened a new heroic chapter in the two thousand-year history of the Turkish soldier.
